Activities

- Play doctor with your child. Make a three-column check-up chart. At the top of the first column, write down what you will check (e.g., eyes, ears, mouth). At the top of the second column, write OKAY. At the top of the third column, write NOT OKAY. Play pretend check-up and examine your child, checking the OKAY or NOT OKAY column for each area. Reverse roles.
- Look at the pictures on the word list page at the end of the book. Sign the names of some of the items pictured and have your child find those items and fingerspell the corresponding words.
- Have your child list the different duties that doctors have based on what you've read together.
